TRIP PLANNING

Taking time to plan your trip can significantly enhance your experience. Be aware of the rules for use and take pride in what this region has to offer. Leave no trace of your presence so the experiences for those who follow are as pleasant as yours. Review the information provided for the trail you plan on using; obtain water level information to optimize your enjoyment and safety. While most trips are without mishap, be aware and prepared for potential hazards. For information about local outfitters, motels, and restaurants visit the following websites:
www.mobile.org or

The Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, State Lands Division and its affiliates assume no responsibility for inaccuracies in road alignments, configuration of intersections and other related information depicted on maps. This map is designed to aid in planning and not for navigation of the Perdido River Canoe Trail. User assumes all risks for vehicles left unattended at landings for day use and overnight trips.

The Department of Conservation and Natural Resources does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, age, gender, pregnancy, national origin, genetic information, veteran status, or disability in its hiring or employment practices nor in admission to, access to, or operations of its programs, services, or activities.

Show respect by minimizing your presence and impact in all ways. Take pride in the ability to pass through the area without leaving any sign of your presence. Never discard garbage or food scraps in the river, no matter how small or insignificant they may seem. Such items pollute the environment and attract unwanted animals. Avoid disturbing wildlife (and other visitors) by keeping quiet and not approaching them too closely. Avoid disturbing plants and other natural features by leaving them in place and building fires only at designated sites. Deposit all human waste in a toilet. Campers on overnight canoe trips are required to use portable toilets between facilities. For information about how to enjoy the outdoors while "leaving no trace" visit: www.lnt.org.
